

The Will

Writer: Jason Leap

We gathered with the lawyer for the reading of the will Momma sat there quietly, between all of us kids
Then he opened up the papers
And my daddy's words were read
You could'a heard a pin drop
When we heard the things he said

To all my loving family, I leave this old house
Just split up all the money and pass it all around
But now that that's all settled and it's all said and done
Here's a few things that I leave with each and everyone

To the boys, I leave the family name
The honesty and pride
To both my precious daughters
I leave a million Gospel lines
Sing them to your children
Tell them of Jesus' love so rare
And take what strength I gave to you
And be patient, kind and fair

To all I leave undying love
Let no one shed a tear
'Cause I was the most blessed man on earth
In the time that I was here
And finally to my loving wife
Whose love was ever true
The greatest gift a man can give
I'll leave my heart to you

We all just kinda sat there
Not knowing what to say
Then Momma looked at all of us and said I'd like to pray
So right there in that office in words so soft and still
We promised God we'd honor all the things in Daddy's will
